

LogistiCare Partners with Miami-Dade Schools to Deliver Food to Residents

LogistiCare, the nation's largest non-emergency medical transportation company, is partnering with Miami-Dade County Public Schools (M-DCPS) to deploy the company's temporary, excess transportation capacity in support of Superintendent Alberto Carvalho's efforts to deliver food to South Florida residents in need.

At the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic, Superintendent Carvalho recognized the restrictions and safety concerns children and their families were facing during this critical time. With the help of countless organizations and community volunteers, M-DCPS assembled community resources to prepare, pack, and distribute food to thousands of families in need.

"When we first heard of Miami-Dade County Public Schools' feeding program, we immediately reached out to offer our support," said Robert Perez, SVP Client Services, LogistiCare Atlantic Region. "We activated the services of Royal Transportation, our local transportation provider, who was more than happy to help, and delivered more than 200 meals on the first day of the partnership."

To date, more than 84,000 meals have been delivered, and the demand continues to grow. Superintendent Carvalho has pledged to continue to feed the community for as long as necessary.

"I am deeply grateful for LogistiCare's support of our community feeding efforts," said Superintendent Carvalho. "Their generous donation of a vehicle and a driver to assist with daily meal distributions during this unprecedented time speaks volumes about the company's commitment to battle food insecurity in our community."

This partnership complements similar food distribution initiatives and community outreach efforts taking place across LogistiCare's transportation network in New Jersey, Philadelphia and now Florida.

"Our partnership with the Miami-Dade County Public Schools allows us to provide assistance to some of the areas facing the greatest need for food access," said Kathryn Stalmack, SVP and General Counsel of LogistiCare. "LogistiCare's growing relationships with food banks, faith-based organizations, municipalities, nonprofits and government entities demonstrate our ability and desire to adjust our basic service model from delivering patients to appointments to delivering food when and where it is needed the most. We stand by Superintendent Carvalho's commitment to serve the most fragile and challenged areas of the South Florida community."
